The CME Program Review and American Academy of Dermatology appreciates your efforts to set high goals for dermatology through educational programs. We are pleased to advise you that your program has been reviewed and recognized as shown above.

In announcements concerning your program, it would be appropriate to state the following:

The West Virginia Dermatological Society West Virginia Derm Society Annual Meeting (Program #547100) is recognized by the American Academy of Dermatology for 8.5 AAD Recognized Credit(s) and may be used toward the American Academy of Dermatology's Continuing Medical Education Award.

This statement must appear for CME informational purposes only and may only be published in its entirety. Failure to comply with these rules may result in having your program re-evaluated, with possibility of recognition revocation.

If at any time there is a change in your program/program dates or to request an increase in the number of AAD Recognized Credits, please complete the Program Information Update Form. This form, along with the updated AAD Recognized Application can be downloaded under the Education section of www.aad.org. Please click on AAD Recognized Credit Program to access these forms.

Please note that the AAD reserves the right to revoke or refuse credit at any time. Cause for revocation or refusal of credit is at the sole discretion of the AAD. Below is a list of examples that could be considered cause for revocation or refusal of credit:

- AMA PRA Category 1 Credit is not provided for every educational activity provided during approval term;
- AAD Recognized Credit approval statement is published prior to approval of the application and/or statement is published incorrectly;
- The number of AAD Recognized Credits exceeds the number of AMA PRA Category 1 Credits designated for an educational activity;
- Educational content is not appropriate for the target audience;
- Educational activity does not comply with the ACCME Essentials, Policies and/or Standards to Commercial Support.
